Letter from the President

For some, raising a garden is a way to provide for their family. For others, it is creating life. For my Dad, it's therapeutic. As long as I can remember, my Dad has planted a garden every spring. The garden starts every St. Patrick's Day with the planting of the potatoes. From there, his garden will grow to include tomatoes, cucumbers, bell peppers, jalapeno peppers, corn, squash, lettuce, and more. It is work! It is a lot of work and a lot of time. I think most people look at the avid gardener and wonder if it's worth all of that effort and sweat. Why the demanding work of rototilling? Why crawl on your knees to mulch? Why brave the heat to pick the produce? Why, when you can just go to the local supermarket or find a farmer's market on the weekend and buy the same stuff?

"To plant a garden is to believe in tomorrow." - Audrey Hepburn

The art of gardening is like the art of building your financial future. Finding the proper soil that your produce can thrive in is important. At White Eagle Credit Union, we are honored that you have chosen to plant your financial garden with us. We make every effort to make sure we have the proper soil, tools, and that we provide the nourishment where it can thrive! We want to see you and your financial dreams grow, and we will do our part to provide the sunlight and water your financial garden needs.

The WECU garden is big. We have plenty of soil tilled and ready for your friends and family to come and plant their financial roots. In fact, the biggest compliment you can give us is to invite your friends and family to do so. We would be honored. Let them know that at WECU, We Believe in Tomorrow!!
